Re-examining Pedagogical Content Knowledge in Science Education

Edited by Amanda Berry, Leiden University, The Netherlands, Patricia Friedrichsen, University of Missouri, USA and John Loughran, Monash University, Australia

Series: Teaching and Learning in Science Series

"This book can offer guidance and direction for other science education researchers in pursuing the impact of PCK on teaching and learning in science. It is timely, and it is needed. It is an important resource for all PCK researchers." —William R. Veal, College of Charleston, USA

Pedagogical Content Knowledge (PCK) has been adapted, adopted, and taken up in a diversity of ways in science education since the concept was introduced in the mid-1980s. Featuring the most up-to-date work from leading PCK scholars across the globe, this volume maps where PCK has been, where it is going, and how it now informs and enhances knowledge of science teachers’ professional knowledge, and illustrates how the PCK research agenda has developed and can make a difference to teachers’ practice and students’ learning of science.
